ABSTRACT

Three lengthy tables and four charts present information on the 1981-82 planned tax effort of each of Pennsylvania's 501 school districts and 67 counties. The tax effort, or "equalized mills," equals each district's budgeted taxes divided by its projected 1981 market value. The report gives a brief illustration of how the tax effort helps establish, through a mathematical formula, each district's basic instruction subsidy from the state for the following year. Included in the tables and charts are data on market value, equalized mills, district and county tax effort rankings, aggregate statewide school taxes from 1977 through 1982, and income from real estate, utility, and per-capita taxes. The data show that real estate taxes account for over 78 percent of budgeted school taxes and that total school district taxes rose to $2.7 billion in 1981-82, almost 9 percent higher than in 1980-81. HIGHLIGHTS

The data for 1981-82 indicate that:

* the rates for total budgeted school taxes based on projected market values ranged from a high of 37.3 mills to a low of 1.5 mills. The mean was 22.7 mills and the median, 21.6 mills.

* the equalized mills on budgeted taxes for 455 school districts ranged from 15.0 to 29.9 mills. In contrast, the rates for four school districts were over 34.9 mills and for two school districts were below 10.0 mills.

* the total for all the school district local budgeted taxes for 1981-82 rose to a new high of $2,661,574,355, an increase of $216,918,218 or 8.9 percent over the 1980-81 figure.

* the current and interim real estate taxes were 78.2 percent of the total local budgeted school taxes.

FOREWORD

A Measure of Local Effort is designed to provide information on each public school district's tax effort. The measure of tax effort is determined by dividing the budgeted taxes each district anticipates collecting by the projected market value of each district. This standard measure of tax effort is commonly referred to as equalized mills, and is used to determine the base earned for reimbursement in the basic instruction subsidy.

INTRODUCTION

A Measure of Local Effort, 1981-82 presents statistical data concerning the planned local tax effort for the 501 school districts in Pennsylvania. With the exception of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia City school districts, these data represent the budgeted school taxes for each of the school districts as reported to the Office of the Comptroller of the Pennsylvania Department of Education. Because Section 687 of the Pennsylvania Public School Code of 1949 does not require first-class school districts to submit a "General Fund Budget," Form DECO-504, the tax data for Pittsburgh and Philadelphia City school districts were obtained from school district officials.

The taxes included are: (1) Local Tax Enabling Act (53 P.S. Sections 6901-6924); (2) First Class City Public Education Home Rule Act (53 P.S. Sections 13201-13223); (3) 351 Pennsylvania Code Article XII (relating to public education); (4) School Code (i.e., current and interim real estate taxes); (5) P.L. 640 of August 9, 1963 (53 P.S. Sections 16101-16103.3); and (6) Public Utility Realty Tax.

To the taxes collected under these authorities are added any delinquent taxes collected and remitted to the district and any payments made to the district in lieu of taxes. Refunds to local taxpayers of prior year taxes are not subtracted from the total taxes collected.

The budgeted school taxes are for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1982, for all school districts except Pittsburgh and Scranton City school districts, which have a fiscal year ending December 31, 1981. The projected 1981 market value for each public school district was calculated by the Department of Education.

A MEASURE OF LOCAL EFFORT

Local Budgeted School Taxes, Projected Market Value and Tax Effort on Equalized Mills By School District and County, 1981-82

Tables 1 and 2 show the local budgeted school taxes 1981-82, the projected 1981 market values, and the equalized mills for each of the school districts with county and state summaries. The columns headed "School Taxes" include all local school taxes budgeted for 1981-82 at the local level.

The Basic Instruction Subsidy Budgeting Process

The first issue of this publication contained the 1967-68 budgeted taxes for school purposes. The objective of the publication was to provide current tax data to assist school directors, school business managers, and superintendents in their study of the different tax structures of the districts in the Commonwealth. The publication has been distributed annually to help the local educational planner analyze taxation trends.

This publication has taken on added importance with the passage of Act 41, July 13, 1979; P.L. 94. The data contained in this publication can be used as a guide by school district business officials in estimating the 1982-83 basic instruction subsidy for their districts. Act 41 stipulates that the reimbursement for school districts shall be determined by each district's relative local taxing effort.

The following is an excerpt of Act 41:

> Section 2501. Clause (17.1) "Base Earned for Reimbursement." Shall be the lesser of (a) the actual instructional expense per weighted average daily membership of the district, or (b) the amount earned as follows:
>
> (i) Subtract the individual school district's equalized millage from the highest equalized millage in the State.
> (ii) Divide the amount determined in subclause (i) by the difference between the highest and lowest equalized millage in the State.

(iii) Multiply the quotient determined in subclause (ii) by two hundred dollars ($200) and round to the nearest whole dollar amount.

(iv) Subtract the amount determined in subclause (iii) from the median actual instruction expense per weighted average daily membership in the year for which reimbursement is being computed.

In relation to the excerpt of Act 41, the following formula is used to estimate the base earned for reimbursement.

B = School district's base earned for reimbursement.

M = State median actual instruction expense per weighted average daily membership (AIE/WADM). NOTE: The estimated median AIE/WADM at the time this publication went to press was $1,684.

H = Highest equalized millage in the State (37.3).

D = Individual school district's equalized millage (See Table 1).

L = Lowest equalized millage in the State (1.5).

Example:

If a school district has an equalized millage of 17.6, its base earned reimbursement is calculated as follows:

$$B = M - \left(\frac{H-D}{H-L} \times $200\right)$$

$$B = $1,684 - \left(\frac{37.3-17.6}{37.3-1.5} \times $200\right)$$

$$B = $1,684 - \left(\frac{19.7}{35.8} \times $200\right)$$

$$B = $1,684 - (0.5502 \times $200)$$

$$B = $1,684 - $110$$

$$B = $1,574$$

According to the formula, the district base earned for reimbursement is $1,574. Should the actual instruction expense per weighted average daily membership be greater, the basic instruction subsidy will be calculated using $1,574. If the actual instruction expense per weighted average daily membership is less than $1,574, the basic instruction subsidy will be calculated using the actual instruction expense per weighted average daily membership.

An Analysis Of The 1981-82 School District Budgeted Tax Data

The rates for total budgeted school taxes based on projected market value ranged from a high of 37.3 mills to a low of 1.5 mills. The mean was 22.7 mills and the median, 21.6 mills.

The ranking of school districts by mill rates pertaining to total local school taxes based on projected market value was as follows: 28.4 mills, 90th percentile; 25.9 mills, 80th percentile; 24.1 mills, 70th percentile; 22.8 mills, 60th percentile; 21.6 mills, 50th percentile; 20.6 mills, 40th percentile; 19.5 mills, 30th percentile; 18.4 mills, 20th percentile; and 16.7 mills, 10th percentile.

The equalized mills were below 5.0 for one school district, 5.0 - 9.9 for one school district, 10.0 - 14.9 for 22 school districts, 15.0 - 19.9 for 146 school districts, 20.0 - 24.9 for 206 school districts, 25.0 - 29.9 for 103 school districts, 30.0 - 34.9 for 18 school districts, and 35.0 or more for four school districts.

The breakdown of the total $2,661,574,355 local school taxes budgeted was as follows: current and interim real estate taxes, $2,080,403,931 or 17.8 mills on projected market value; public utility realty taxes, $22,373,839 or 0.2 mills; per capita taxes, $17,410,321 or 0.1 mills; Act 511 taxes, $367,964,095 or 3.1 mills; and other taxes, $173,422,169 or 1.5 mills. Of the total listed under "other taxes," $111,045,800 are for Pittsburgh and Philadelphia City school districts.

The percentage of the total local school taxes budgeted was as follows: current and interim real estate taxes, 78.2 percent; public utility realty taxes, 0.8 percent; per capita taxes, 0.7 percent; Act 511 taxes, 13.8 percent; and other taxes, 6.5 percent. Pittsburgh and Philadelphia City school districts account for more than one-half of this 6.5 percent.

The total budgeted local school taxes for 1981-82 rose to a new high of $2,661,574,355, an increase of $216,918,218 or 8.9 percent over the 1980-81 figure. A breakdown of the increases in total budgeted local school taxes for 1981-82 was as follows: current and interim real estate taxes increased $172,453,791 or 9.0 percent, public utility realty taxes increased $2,735,549 or 14.0 percent, per capita taxes increased $161,538 or 0.9 percent, Act 511 taxes increased $24,008,766 or 7.0 percent, and other taxes increased $17,554,574 or 11.3 percent.

Trends

Presented in Table 3 are the total local budgeted school taxes in dollars, percent, and equalized mills, 1977-78 through 1981-82. Projected market values were used for the first time in 1978-79. This table shows a breakdown of total budgeted taxes by type, by amount, as a percent of total budgeted taxes, and as equalized mills based on market value or equalized mills based on projected market value for the five-year period. During this period the real estate taxes were over 78 percent of the total budgeted school taxes for each of the years. A percent breakdown of the total budgeted school taxes by category shows that none of the categories varied more than 2.0 percent during the five-year period.
